OLD TIME MUSIC FESTIVAL

April 18-23
Greenleaf State Park
Braggs, OK

Jamming,
Concerts,
Workshops, and More!

We are a group of musicians who love Old Time American fiddle and dance tunes; arguably among the oldest of American music. We have formed the Greenleaf Old Time Music Association (GLOTMA.org) to introduce and foster the love of playing this music to the younger generation, thus keeping it alive for all to enjoy for many years to come.

Greenleaf Old Time Festival offers a welcoming environment for people to gather together, make new friends, jam and trade tunes.

All this and yes, this is a free festival!
Anyone is welcome! Will you help share this great experience?

Camping & Campground Jams

This is a laid-back environment by design. We have no formal stages or rigid schedules. We place a high priority on jams whether planned or “organic”, in any size of group from two to a dozen or more. Jamming with others helps form the bond of a music for people who may have nothing else in common. Whether you have been playing your whole life, or just learning, there is always opportunity to learn a new tune, a new technique or a new instrument in the old time genre.

Concerts and Workshops

Performing live, in concert: David Bragger, Susan Platz, Tricia Spencer, Howard Rains, as well as Gretchen Priest and Emily Wilson as Roadside Distraction

We bring in internationally known artists to teach workshops in the craft of playing old time music. Unlike many other workshops that teach you just one song, our workshops give you the tools, hands-on practice, and understanding to play many tunes either by yourself or with others. Besides the workshops, our artists will also be “on the ground” playing right beside you in organic jams. Some workshops offered include old time backup guitar, fiddle chording, and old time banjo. Attend any or all, and workshops are FREE!
